

LABOUR AND HUMAN RIGHTS POLICY

Sofia Med recognises the right of all employees and stakeholders to work with dignity and believe that everyone in the company is responsible for having due regard for human rights.

Within Sofia Med, commitment on ethical principles is extremely important. Sofia Med supports and respects the fundamental principles, as articulated in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. Sofia Med supports the protection of international human rights across the business value chain, and will not be complicit in human rights abuses. The company policies and procedures adhere to all applicable domestic laws concerning freedom of association and collective bargaining, non-discrimination, forced labour and underage workers in the workplace.

Sofia Med's commitment relies on principles concerning the fundamental human rights contained in the International Labour Organisation's Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work.

Non-discrimination

Sofia Med respects diversity and avoids any form of unfair or unlawful discrimination in employment or occupation, promoting a culture, where people recognise the value that a diverse workforce brings. Sofia Med hires, assesses, remunerates and manages in a manner that does not discriminate with regard to gender, race, religion, age, marital status, disability, sexual orientation, nationality, political opinion, union affiliation, social or ethnic origin. Workplace diversity at all levels is encouraged.

Equality and equal opportunities

Sofia Med does not tolerate any discrimination of race, gender, religion, age, nationality, social or ethnic origin, disability, belief, sexual orientation, or political and trade union engagement. These principles apply to the recruitment of new employees, to employees with an employment contract and to the professional promotion of their employees. The only decisive factors of employment are performance, experience, personality, efficiency, skills, qualifications and conduct.

Freedom of association

Sofia Med upholds freedom of association and the effective recognition of the right to collective bargaining. Sofia Med shall respect employees' rights to freely associate, organize and bargain collectively in accordance with applicable laws and regulations, in support of their mutual interests.
